NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

In the Range Cattle Convention, in session at Denver, Dr. Moore, of Wyoming, offered Thursday the following resolution:

WHEREAS, The range cattle industry shares the present long-continued business depression, and whereas we believe this depression is largely attributed to the contraction of the currency consequent upon the demonetization of silver by the German Empire, and the hostile attitude of our Government toward bi-metalism; therefore, be it

Resolved, That in our judgment it is time for the United States to act so independently in protecting and fostering her interests as a great producer of the precious metals that she shall bring other nations to her own policy rather than silently submit to their dictation.

That it is a cause of congratulation that in the crisis our Senators and Representatives from Kansas, California, Texas and Oregon are a unit in favor of the continuance of silver coinage and a rigid compliance by the Treasury Department of the Government with the laws relating to gold and silver; that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Representatives and Senators in Congress as an indication of our profound interest in this great question, and of our hearty commendation of their advocacy of bi-metalism.

The members of the Ways and Means Committee who favor the continued coinage of silver, and who do not agree with Secretary Manning's policy of keeping a large surplus of silver and gold in the Treasury, have had several conferences and have decided to mature a bill and report it to the House, directing the Secretary of the Treasury to issue a call of not less than $50,000,000 in bonds, to be paid out of said surplus. The question as to the proportion of gold and silver which shall be paid for such bonds has not been fully determined, but the indications are that the committee will adopt the Beck proposition to pay the same proportion that customs duties are received in New York. The members of this committee think it time that this question of silver and a large surplus idle in the Treasury should be definitely settled by the House. They will bring the matter before the House at an early day.

There is an epidemic of lying, contradicting and explaining of war matters in certain "war papers" by some who did the fighting and by some who didn't. It was long since shown that George Washington had no hatchet and his father had no cherry tree, and if this "war paper" business continues, the generation due twenty or thirty years hence, will honestly believe that what we understood as the civil war was merely a little shot gun affair over the Virginia rail fence between two old duffers named Mason and Dixon.

It is understood that there will be little difficulty or delay in passing the Fitz-John Porter bill through Congress at this session. The House, it is thought, will pass the bill, and a canvass of the Senate shows that the bill will have a majority of five or six in that body. And, of course, it will be signed this time by the President, so it is probable that in a few days General Porter will get the vindication which he has fought to procure for twenty-four years.

California's assessed value of real estate foots up to $500,000,000; personal property $200,000,000. Twelve million acres of land are under cultivation and 16,000,000 are fenced. The value of her annual product is $180,000,000. As a State she is practically out of debt. In her savings bank is deposited $60,000,000.

The Cabinet has decided not to accede to the request of the Senate relative to furnishing that body with the reasons for making certain removals and appointments in office.

The belief gains ground that before long the Mint will be re-opened, and that during the coming Summer the new Government building will be in the course of construction. This will make lively times again for Carson. Our leading and influential citizens and business men have been earnest and incessant in their efforts to bring about such a happy turn in affairs.—Index.

THE PRESIDENT AND THE SENATE.

Mr. Cleveland Will Not Give His Reasons for Making Removals.

The Washington correspondent of the San Francisco Post telegraphs that the President's attitude of antagonism toward the Edmunds' resolution remains unchanged. He holds that Presidents are like other men—in the exercise of the appointing power they are frequently actuated by motives, and influenced by considerations which, unless actually corrupt or criminal, are, to put it bluntly, nobody else's business. Of course, if it were responsibly charged that the President had been bribed to make any given nomination, it would become competent for the Senate to investigate the charge, but in that case the proceedings would take the form of an impeachment, and the Senate would sit as a High Court. It is understood that the President takes the ground that as long as no such charge is made, the Senate has no right to go further than to ascertain the fitness of the nominee on his own merits. The President holds that his responsibility is to the people who elected him, and that the jurisdiction to judge as to the propriety or fidelity of the discharge of his duty is to the high tribunal of public opinion, and not to the Senate.

The Consular Service.

The Washington correspondent of the San Francisco Post writes as follows of Comptroller Durham and the Consular service:

Comptroller Durham, of the Treasury Department, is a most peculiar looking man when we consider the power which is intrusted in his care. He is a six footer and walks along the street with tremendous strides. His black slouch hat is invariably brought down very nearly over his eyes, and he has the general appearance of a workman or a farmer in moderate circumstances. With all his inattention to the details of dress, he is one of the most hardest workers in Washington. He is in his office early in the morning and frequently can be found there late at night. Durham is an economical man. He scents extravagance from afar off, and he hits friend and foe alike when he considers he has sufficient provocation. Not one, but a whole series of investigations is being carried on in his office. The latest, and the one about which nothing has been said heretofore, is that looking into the expenditures of our diplomatic and consular agents abroad. It is said that the Controller has unearthed several irregularities, and that he is making it extremely lively for some of our far-away officials. There is no question that he has had abundant opportunities for the insertion of his sharp pruning knife. The reason why so little is being said about the investigation is that it hits some of the newly-appointed Democratic diplomatists right between the eyes, so to speak. Probably not one-half of the Democrats who have been sent out of the country by President Cleveland had any idea of their duties and the peculiarities of their position before they received their appointments. To the certain knowledge of Comptroller Durham some of them appear to believe that all the money in the Treasury is at their back. It will not be many days before they will discover their mistake. The surplus in the Treasury will not be very materially reduced by our consular and diplomatic agents as long as Mr. Durham is First Comptroller. Quite a number of accounts which have run the gamut of the other accounting officers of the Treasury have been held up in the Comptroller's office pending an investigation. While a number of Consuls will be interested in the Comptroller's investigation it is hinted that several of our Ministers have been enjoying themselves at the public expense. It is said that our own general Sunset Cox has been tempted by the Oriental magnificence of his surroundings to overstep the limit set down by Comptroller Durham, and that an explanation of certain expenditures made by our legation at Constantinople has not only been requested but imperatively ordered. The difference between the Minister and Comptroller is said to be in relation to the purchase of certain Arabian chargers. The balmy air of the Bosphorus evidently softened Mr. Cox's flinty hearted opposition to expenditures in the line of extravagance; at least, that is the view which is taken from the standpoint of economy which the Comptroller brought to the capital from Kentucky. The contest between the Comptroller and the diplomatic and consular service will be watched with interest, especially in view of the fact that a tremendous pressure will be brought to bear to secure a reversal of some of the recent decisions. It is said that the Comptroller has cut off certain perquisites which have always been allowed, and that this is the real cause of their antagonism to him.

The Queen will unquestionably summon Gladstone to form a Cabinet.

Public Land Legislation.

The Senate Committee on Public Lands, which has been giving a great deal of study to the present condition of the land laws and the manner in which they are being enforced, some days ago appointed a sub-committee to draw up a single measure that would remedy all the faults in the existing legislation. The committee has prepared a bill, which will be reported favorably to the Senate. It repeals all laws providing for the pre-emption of public lands, and the laws allowing entries for timber culture and other purposes. This repeal is not to affect any valid rights heretofore accrued under said laws, but all bona fide claims lawfully instituted before July 1st, 1886, may be preferred upon due compliance with law in the same manner, upon the same terms and conditions, and subject to the same limitations and forfeitures of contracts as if this act had not been passed.

One section of the proposed bill amends the act for the sale of desert lands, and requires that persons filing on desert land shall reside thereon for five years and during that period shall cultivate said tract, and that he or she must be a resident of the United States. It also provides that a party filing upon lands under this section shall make his residence upon the same within twelve months after filing, and that his residence thereafter shall be continuous; any failure to reside upon the lands for more than six months shall work a forfeiture. No person is allowed to enter more than 320 acres, and that is to be in a compact form. This shall apply only to California, Oregon, Colorado and Nevada, and the Territories of Washington, Idaho, Montana, Utah, Wyoming, Arizona, New Mexico and Dakota.

Blaine to Write Another Book.

J. H. Manley, of Augusta, Me., now in New York, says that Blaine is reading the final proof of the second volume of his book, which will be issued this week. He is then going to take a short vacation, after which he is going to begin another book, taking up the political history of the country antecedent to the time covered in the first volume of his "Twenty Years in Congress." Manley thinks that the second volume will call forth more criticisms than the previous one, as it treats of matters of more recent history, about which there is, perhaps, a wider difference of opinion. Blaine is in excellent health and spirits. In answer to an inquiry as whether Blaine would again be a candidate for public office, Manley replied, "that is something I have not heard him say a word about. He does not allow himself to be drawn into conversation on such matters. However, I think he is better satisfied writing history than he would be doing anything else."

Opposition to Mr. Beecher.

It is understood that there is considerable opposition to the confirmation of Mr. Beecher, who was appointed by President Cleveland Collector of Customs at Port Townsend, W. T., simply as a reward for the political services rendered the Democratic party during the last Presidential campaign by his father, Rev. Henry Ward Beecher. Mr. Beecher was formerly a purser on one of the steamers running on the Pacific coast, and the reputation he acquired in that occupation appears to have been such that both Democrats and Republicans are now opposing his confirmation. It is understood that Mr. Beecher has left his post at Port Townsend, and is now on his way to Washington to look personally after his confirmation.

Senator Miller's Condition.

It is stated that Senator Miller's health is improving and that his friends are greatly encouraged. At the Senator's house it is believed that the strongest symptom in favor of his recovery is his own firm belief that he will get well. His nerve and will power are believed to be more potent beneficial influences than medicines.

A San Francisco correspondent of the Virginia Enterprise asks: "If there has been any rottenness in Nevada Senatorial elections, where and when has it appeared?" If the correspondent will mention any election of the kind in this State in which it has not "appeared," he will cite a little matter of history unknown to us.—Times-Review.

A Republican Explanation of the Question of Charges.

One of the most prominent Republican Senators, speaking of the controversy between the Senate and the Executive says: "There is a very general misunderstanding as to the attitude of the Republicans in the Senate. No one has for a moment contended, so far as I know, that the Republicans shall demand of the President the reason why he has made any appointments. The mental processes by which he has arrived at the conclusion to appoint any particular men do not concern the Senate. But the Senate does ask what the charges are which have caused the suspension of any officer, and that information the Senate expects to obtain. It is known in many localities throughout the country that holders of Federal offices have been removed upon charges. The Senate, under the Constitution, is required to 'advise and consent' to the suspension of these officers, and to pass upon the validity of these charges. We know that in all of the departments these charges are a matter of record. They are contained in letters, affidavits, copies of newspapers and statements of various kinds made in writing. Many of them have been seen by Senators as individuals. It is the production of these charges, or documents or records, or whatever one may choose to call them, that the Senate desires. The use of the word 'reasons' in the communications which have been sent by some of the committees of the Senate to the heads of departments was ill-advised and misleading, and does not represent the wishes of the Senate. If the President understands the Republican position, it seems impossible that he can decline to instruct the heads of departments to furnish the Senate with these charges. It is in the power of the Senate to authorize its committees to send for persons and papers, and every Cabinet officer under this Government is certainly within the meaning of the Constitution a person. The charges on file in the departments are papers, and by sending for these papers the charges can be secured. There are abundant precedents for this. When Mr. Sherman was Secretary of the Treasury he always responded to summons from committees of Congress, and brought with him the records of the Department. This right the Senate has exercised from early in the history of the Government. In the annals of Congress it will be found that in 1879 the Senate issued an order directing the Secretary of State to appear with certain papers. The language used was not the language of courtesy. The Secretary of State was ordered to appear. The power which was exercised in 1789 exists in 1886.

"This is the Republican position, and it is all there is in it. The President has made the appointments for reasons which seemed good to him; the Senate can confirm or reject them for reasons which seem good to it."

THE GREAT WEST MINE.—Some time since H. H. McColliey purchased a mining claim near Willow Creek of Andy Shrewsbury. The lead, which was called the Great West, was unprospected, and Mr. McColliey offered 500 feet of it to any one who would sink a 50-foot shaft on the lead. The offer was accepted by a miner, who is now at work sinking the shaft. The lead is four feet wide, and some very rich gold-bearing quartz has been found in sinking the shaft. Some of the choice pieces were crushed in a mortar and Mr. McColliey, who is in town, has about two ounces of gold procured by this method of working the ore. The dust is coarse, and worth about $18 an ounce.—Silver State.

The case of ex-Director of the Mint Burchard seems likely now to be used to bring the point at issue between the President and the Senate to a decision. Burchard, appointed for five years, was removed without cause, no charges having been filed against him, and the Senate will probably delay action on other appointments until this case is thoroughly "worked up."—Virginia Chronicle.

It is confidently expected that a mining boom will strike Nye county this coming Summer. Mine holders are feeling good over the favorable outlook for silver. A jump in silver will resuscitate everything and cause a big joy where sadness now reigns.—Belmont Courier.

Candidates for State offices in Western Nevada are already manipulating the political wires. Candidates will be very numerous this year.—Belmont Courier.

LET NEVADANS RULE.

The Austin Reveille in its issue of Jan. 27th says:

This writer was in San Francisco some time since and while there was in the Palace Hotel office several times. On only one afternoon we saw about a dozen prominent Nevada office-holders and "Warwicks" who seemed especially busy and secretive. Of course they were discussing and planning the coming Nevada election. This may be all right and doubtless is, but why go to San Francisco (unless they all have free passes over the C. P. R. R., which would be a damaging admission to make,) to do this? Why not meet at the Depot Hotel at Reno, the Ormsby House at Carson or the International Hotel at Virginia City, to do their planning? The California politicians do not come to Nevada to lay their little games to hoodwink the innocent voter. Then why should our leaders go to San Francisco or anywhere else outside of the State to do this thing. The fact is California men figure too much in Nevada affairs. If this is a sovereign State government for and by a sovereign people let them out loose from every outside State and influence and conduct their own affairs in a manner best calculated to help our own interests. Nevada is in need of careful fostering now. Its varied interests need skillful assistance which can only be secured by attentive study and statesmanship. This cannot be attained by a handful of would-be leaders who must rush to San Francisco every little while and draw their inspirations from the Central Pacific or the millionaires. As we write a number of our principal State officials may be daily seen in the Palace Hotel and they spend more of their time there than they do in this State. This thing does not look right nor is it right. If they are so stuck after San Francisco let them move there, but it is hardly the thing to hold office here at good salaries and spend all their time and money outside the State.

There is some quiet "feeling" going on among prominent Republicans in town who favor Stewart as Fair's successor as United States Senator.—Enreka Sentinel.

The adjourned meeting of the Band of Hope of last Saturday will take place to-day at 1:30. A full attendance is required.

A Wadsworth subscriber asks the JOURNAL what is being done by the Supreme Court about fees of jurymen. The Eureka case not been decided.

Reno Encampment, I. O. O. F. will give a grand ball on the 26th of April. E. Nowatney, J. J. Becker, D. B. Boyd, John Bowman and F. C. Updike are the committee to make arrangements.

As the storm prevented Walter Hastings from giving his regular soiree last Saturday night, the Theater will undoubtedly be crowded this evening, on the occasion of a revival of these popular dances.

The Holmes mine shipped bullion valued at $10,800 69 on January 22d. Several more shipments are on the way, but are blockaded by the washout of about 20 miles of the Carson & Colorado Railroad track, which is also holding back between $30,000 and $40,000 in bullion from the Mono mine.

A Gold Lead Discovered.

John Watterman reports that Sam Hendra and Steve Thomas have discovered a gold-bearing lead in the Dun Glen mountains that promises to be very valuable. They found rich float on the mountain side, about a mile from the Lang Syno, and went to work to find the lead by digging trenches to the bedrock. Their labors were rewarded by the discovery of a five-foot vein, every inch of which carries gold in paying quantities. The Winnemucca Silver State says gold-bearing quartz has been discovered in many places in the Dun Glen range, and experienced miners have long been of the opinion that the district, when prospected, will prove to be the richest gold mining locality in the State.

The Depot Hotel.

The Carson Tribune says: Parry & Fitzgerald, the new proprietors of the Depot Hotel at Reno, are doing all in their power to accommodate patrons. Both gentlemen are well and favorably known, and Fitz., the long time major domo of the Palace Hotel at Reno, is liked by all who ever patronized that house. The hotel is in first-class condition; gas has been laid all over the house and as nice beds as can be found in Reno can be had for 50 cts. per night. Meals for local custom are 50 cts. and a table is spread fit for any epicure. The Tribune advises all from the Capital and adjoining towns to make the Depot their stopping place when visiting Reno.

Monthly Meeting.

The Trustees of Reno School District will hold their regular monthly meeting at the public school building this afternoon, to pass upon all bills of the past school month. G. H. TAYLOR, Secretary.

FIRE INSURANCE.
Another Raise by the Board of Underwriters.

For the first time in the history of fire insurance in California an organization of all the fire insurance agencies located at San Francisco, and in fact all the agencies, domestic or foreign, transacting business in that State, was organized under the name of the "Pacific Insurance Union." All business in the State of Nevada transacted since February 15th of last year, has been necessarily under the rules of said "Union," which required that every company, upon receipt of, or upon writing a daily report upon any fire risk, should submit same to Mr. Alfred Stillman, the General Manager of said "Union," who should verify by examination the correctness of said report in accordance with the established rates of the organization. On February 19, 1885, "Circular No. 35" was issued to the effect that "all risks in Carson City and Reno, Nevada, should be rated in accordance with the printed 'Rate Book No. 4,' providing, however, that 'a detachment of ten feet should break a range.' The said Association has from time to time, through its Executive Committee, issued circulars regulating all business transacted on the Pacific Coast through the agencies of said "Union." On the 27th inst. "Circular No. 166" was issued containing the action of said Executive Committee in the following preamble and resolution adopted by it:

OFFICE OF GENERAL MANAGER, }
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27, 1886. }
Copy of resolution adopted by Executive Committee, Jan. 26, 1886: }
WHEREAS, During the current month the Companies doing business through agents established in the State of Nevada will be called upon to pay a license tax of $100 for the privilege; and }
WHEREAS, This tax adds about five per cent. to the average premium income of the Companies; therefore, }
Resolved, That on all business taking effect from and after January 1st, five per cent shall be added as a specific tax, to be collected and remitted by the Agents. }
ALFRED STILLMAN, }
General Manager. }

The result of this circular is that on and after Sunday every fire insurance agent in Nevada will be required to add five per cent. to every premium reported by him to his company agency in San Francisco. Of course there will be many and conflicting opinions expressed in relation to this action, which affects every person taking out or renewing a fire risk in this State. The assured will probably claim that this is but another effort to increase the gains of the companies at the expense of those already burdened with a heavy insurance tax; while the corporations will claim that, in view of the increased expense of transacting business in this State, the companies are justified in the increase of rate sufficient to offset the tax imposed by the State upon them. There is an opportunity for protracted argument on either side, but, in the mean time all business must "stand the raise" until a remedy is found, which does not seem very likely, at least in the near future.

Range Cattle.

Notwithstanding the mildness of the Winter, there will be considerable loss among range cattle. Stock men attribute this to the heavy rains in November, which took nearly all the nutriment out of the grass. Joe McColley, of Fort McDermitt, says if the Winter had been severe the loss of cattle would be great, even as it is many carcasses will straw the ranges before next April.

Monday Evening's Meeting.

All feeling interested in the movement to rid this community of the Chinese are requested to meet at Armory Hall next Monday evening at 7 o'clock, at which time the reports of the committees appointed at the former meeting will be received. Per order of the EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Quite a number of the papers in the State are wasting considerable space in speculations concerning the probable nominees for District Judges under the new Judiciary law. The law will be declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court before the next election, and the Judges will be elected under the old law. That is as certain as sunrise, and candidates for District Judgeships might as well commence right now setting their pegs for District nominations, instead of connecting their wires with the State Convention.—Time-Review.

School Superintendents.
Elko Independent.

On page 9, of the School Laws of 1885, we find the following: [The District Attorneys, in addition to their duties as such, shall be ex-officio County Superintendents of Schools, approved March 12, State of 1885, p. 96.] This clause naturally leads to the belief that no Superintendent of Schools will be elected in November, 1886, and those who have had no opportunity to examine the Statutes of 1885 are of that opinion. This wrong impression is gained from the above quotation, and the Superintendent of Public Instruction is at fault in not quoting the section referred to in full, that the people may know the exact purport of the statute.

For the benefit of the many who have an erroneous impression of the Act we quote:

SECTION 1. On and after the first Monday in January, 1887, in all counties in this State containing a voting population of eighteen hundred or more to be determined by the total vote cast therein at the last general election preceeding the time when the officers hereinafter named are required to assume the duties of their respective offices, the Sheriffs, in addition to their duties as Sheriffs, shall be ex-officio Assessors; the County Clerks shall in addition to their present duties, be ex-officio County Treasurers; the District Attorneys, in addition to their duties as such, shall be ex-officio County Superintendents of Schools. See Stats of 1885, p. p. 96 and 97.

From this it will be seen that in all counties of this State having a voting population of less than 1,800, County Superintendents of Schools will be elected as heretofore. There is perhaps but one county in the State to which this law will apply, Storey, and even that county may not cast the requisite 1,800 votes at the next general election.

It is reported that there is a clash between Secretary Manning and the President. The former wants the latter to make the silver coinage issue a test for Democratic eligibility for Federal patronage, which the President very sensibly refuses to do. If opposition to silver was to be made the criterion of Democracy, there would be but a very small stump of a tail of the party left, and Mr. Cleveland has sufficient discernment to appreciate the fact.—Times-Review.

If our Senators' private business is so extensive that it prevents their attending to the interests of their constituents at Washington they had better resign. Nevada has men both able and willing to represent it in Congress. Stay at home Senators are neither useful or ornamental.—Belmont Courier.
